The Treasury Department has passed upon and approved the last of the war claims of the State of Missouri against the Government, and will soon issue a warrant for one million dollars, found due in the final settlement. The total sum paid to Missouri on these claims amounted to more than Broad street, Philadeldhia, 'is eleven miles and a and fifteen feet wide, extending from League Teland on the Delaware River, to the Northern boundary of the present city limits. At its present rate of improvement, it will require only a few years to make it the most magnificent thoroughfare in the world. Another of the ridiculous wagers in vogue was paid in San Francisco lately. The loser, a Union man, carried a hand organ the whole length of the principal street, playing as he went and collecting money for the benefit of the Catholic and Protestant orphan asylums. The show would have been more complete if the winning Democrat had played the part of the monkey. The London Athenaum publishes this paragraph: "Promising experiments have been made in the burning of creosote as fuel to heat steam boilers. Containing three times more hydrogen than coal, creosote gives off three times as much heat-a fact of no little importance in these days of enormous consumption a. 'apprehended exhaustion of our coal r iles." The magnitude of the marine interests on the lakes is frequently illustrated at the St. Clair "flats," where, sometimes, so large a fleet of vessels is collected for passage through the difficult channel that a "jam," occurs, injuring vessels, and temporarily obstructing navigation altogether. The latest "jam" was on the night of the 25th, but no serious damage resulted.

Ohio was, by the census of 1860, the third State in the Union, having a population of 2,339,502, or 7.44 per cent. of the whole. The State now gives more attention to the production of wool, having the largest number of sheep of any State, viz.: 6.568.052, out of 32,695, 797 in the United States. The live stock in the State was valued, in 1866, at $151,000,000, which exceeds that of any other State except New York, being $170,552,506.

It is proposed to construct a magnificent church in Tarrytown, New York, to the memory of Wash-INGTON IRVING. The site chosen for the church is on Broadway, the principal avenue of Tarrytown, in the immediate neighborhood of Sleepy Hollow and the cemetery where Mr. Invinc is buried. The work has begun, and the subscriptions amount to upwards of twenty thousand dollars. Eight thousand dollars more are required. It is estimated that the towers will cost the additional sum of ten Horaci: Greeley proposes that an appropriate building be erected at New York for the perpetual exhibiton and encouragement of American manufactures, and he offers to devote to its purpose his accumulated savings of forty years—the sum of two hundred thousand dollars—guaranteeing that the edifice should be opened on the 4th of July, 1876. By that time he hopes that America, through the auspices of the American Institute, will be able to challenge the world to competition in the production of the mechanic and other arts.

The Milwaukee Sentinet says: "Two years ago the prospects of sorghum, or sorgho, becoming a staple were so great that several extensive factories for crushing machines were established within the State. * * * * Jack Frost seems to have placed his veto upon the whole sorgho busine 38, by refusing to let the cane ripen before he had nipped it so severely as to greatly damage its quality. of his scheme shows what idiotic trash bright men can sometimes write: "Permission to marry should be the reward held in sight of routh du ring the entire latter part of the course of their education; and it should be granted as the national attestation that the first portion of their lives had been rightly fulfilled. It should not be attainable without carnest and consistent effort, though put within the reach of all who were willing to make such effort; and the granting of which should be a public testimony to the fact that the youth or the maid to whom it was given had lived within their proper sphere a modest and virtuous life, and had attained such skill in their proper handicraft and in arts of household economy as might give well-founded expectations of their being able honorably to maintain and teach their children. No girl should receive permission to marry before her seventeenth birthday, nor any youth before his twenty-first; and it should be a point of somewhat distinguished honor with both sexes to gain their permission of marriage in the eighteenth and twenty-second year, and a recognized disgrace not to have gained it at least before the close of the twenty-first and twenty-fourth. Permissions to marry should be given publicly to the maidens and youths who had won them in that half year, and they should be crowned, the maids by the old French title of Rosieres, and the youths perhaps by some name rightly derived from one supposed signification of the word "bachelor," "laurel fruit," and so led in joyful procession, with music and singing, through the city, street or lane, and the day ended with feasting of the poor, but not with theirs, except quietly at their homes. Every bachelor and rosiere should be entitled to claim, if they need it, according to their position in life, a fixed income from the State for seven years from the day of their marriage for the setting up of their homes; and however rich they might be by inheritance, their income should not to their rank for seven years following that in

It says : "Those who are offended at humor in HENRY WARD BEECHER, should listen to SPUR General Dan. E. Sickles, says: "We learn that GEON, both in and out of the pulpit." We shall never forget the evening when we stood in a dense crowd in the Free Church Assembly Hall in Edindered to await further instructions at New York burgh, and heard him address the Scotch ministers and elders on an effective way of preaching the gospel, for more than an hour. He insisted stinence society, not only for the next Canadian on brief and varied exercises in meetings for legislative session, but, as he says, "with the help prayer and conference, adding: "I never like of God for all time." He confesses to have been to have one of my deacons pray for half an a hard drinker, and that the habit told on his best hour, and conclude with asking the Lord to for give our shortcomings !' THE WRITER OF "Readings by Starlight," in the London Star, says: We have a new journal, a class journal, the City Wait-,ers' Provident Society's Journal. "Yez-zir-chop sir? small of beef, sir? comin', sir." The editor is no doubt a good man and a smart waiter ; he has read DICKENS, and feelingly refers to "Somebody's Luggage," wherein the waiter's life, The Northern people are beginning to see this, he says, is shown to "be no bed of roses," but he spills his gravy, as it were, and becomes very half long, in one straight line, and one hundred sloppy as an editor. But the ubiquitous Mr. Ben-NETT, watch and clock BENNETT, who is the president of the society, out-does the editor. He thus addressed the meeting of waiters: "He had often heard it remarked that waiters were dressed so respectably that they looked like a number of clergymen! And they made exceedingly goodlooking gentlemen, prepared to do their duty in that state of life in which it had pleased God to call them." . However, the editor means well, and so does the president, and we accept their facts and honor their cause more than their eloquence. It appears from this journal that there are more than 6000 regular waiters in the city of London, and 2000 outsiders : 8000 waiters moving about in 16,000 waiters' pumps! What a notion does this give our tender spouses of city chops, legs of mutton, soup, brocoli, and "Greens, sir? you said greens, sir? comin', sir." The president puts down the wages of these useful and industrious men at 4s. per day each; surely this is underrated?

-but, whether or not, we wish well to the society. INSURRECTIONARY MOVEMENTS in Italy do not necessarily imply dissatisfaction with the existing government. The inference should be rather that there is a widely prevailing discontent resulting from destitution. The country is deplorably poor. For a long period every productive energy has been paralyzed by misrule and civil disorder. The pursuit of agriculture in many sections has been almost impracticable, for lack of protection from banditti or other forms of lawlessness. Manufac tures, &c., have had but a feeble development. Meanwhile the burden of national indebtedness has increased, heavier taxes have been imposed and now, that thousands of men are discharged from military employment, the principal cities are filled with idlers -some of whom, no doubt, are "fit for treason, stratagem and spoils." The whole situation, as we understand it, is well explained in a single sent; nee from a London paper, which says: "It is to this overcrowding that the distress owing, and that while the fruits of the earth are rotting in the field for lack of husbandmen swarms of squalid paupers and sturdy beggars are infesting the town streets with crics for 'bread or work', ready to fall into the toils of any agitator who may ply them with mad theories about

THE CINCINNATI GAZETTE is complimentary to the Democrats after the following fashion: The monstrous profligacy, and corruption, and plunder tive patronage into the hands of the Democracy has already established in our internal revenue, warns the country that with Democratic contro repudiation will be no relief from burdens of taxation. The tremendous fact stares us in the face that Democratic control of the collection of the whiskey and tobacco excise robs the revenue of enough to pay more than half the interest of the national debt. The burden created by the Democratic rebellion is more than doubted by Demo cratic corruption in but two items of taxes. By this we estimate what it would be with the Demosracy in complete control of the Government With an honest Administration, the burden of paying all the debt would be lighter than with a Democratic Administration it would be if we should repudiate half. And with complete Democratic control of the Government, it might repudiate all, and yet the people would get no relief. Thus we see that honesty is cheaper than Democracy. We can preserve the national honor at even less pecuniary cost than we can support Democracy and the infamy of repudiation.

ANOTHER STORY.

G Tell another story, Sir! for the reast is very small to-day." We all remember the story of the servant of Scarron, the celebrated wit and first husband of Madame de MAINTE NON. When his master's hospitality had over leaped his prudence, and it was necessary to make his guests forget their desire for food. The Radical party of the United States have evidently studied this lesson carefully. It sharply separated in the beginning of the war of knows that the people are in want of more food. They have been made to swallow Sambo in every shape and form, done up in every style, and cooked in every way. They first had him served up as st the intelligent contraband just arrived from Richmond," who would not lie for anything on earth. Next he appeared dressed up in the Emancipation Proclamation. Then he appeared in blue and brass, and was decked out as the loyalist of the South, and now he is the sole ingredient in their dish of liberty and "manhood suffrage." They feel, however, that the people are sick of this. They have been invited to an entertain-ment and they cannot eat.

"One more story," whispers the skillful servant, and forthwith the story is manufactured. Mr. Senator THAYER informs the people that which you belong. Great is the Diana of the Ephesians, Mr. THAYER. Great is the Radical party in whose hands are the custom houses, revenue offices, post offices, navy yards, and even the whiskey. It would never do to give them up. You have control to-day, and it would be hard if you should chance to be left in the cold to-morrow. We know that you would be sorry, but do you think that the Southern people would be? We think not. Seriously speaking, we are sick and tired of hearing constant babble about "manhood suffrage." We know that if it means anything at all, except ruin to and vengeance on the South, t means a conflict sooner or later of races. and the Radical leaders begin to feel that power is stealing from their grasp. One revoution gave them a strong foot-hold, their wasteful extravagance which may yet bring a day of vengeance on "shoddy" contractors, coupled with newspaper generalship such as that exhibited by the Tribune in 1862, by prolonging the war, enabled them to strengthen their posiion. The assassination of Mr. Lincoln whom they abused when alive, but canonised when dead, gave them the entire control of the government. They thought their power unlimited, and with the magnanimity of those who never have gunpowder except at a Fourth of July parade, they determined to push the South othe wall. Terms were offered which we could not accept without forfeiting our own self-respect. They were rejected as all honest men knew that they would be, and Reconstruction acts. bayonets and "manhood suffrage" were substituted in the place of the Constitutional Amendment. At this point, they were met by the statement, what is justice to the black man in the South, is also justice to him in the North. To have receded from their position at the South, would have been political destruction. Not to have advanced to the same position at the North, would have been political stultification and annihilation. They sprung forward-Connecticut did not like the thought of mixing white and black blood at home, and rejected the party. California saw the necessary results which would flow from the triumph of the theories of Radicalism, and cast her vote in favor of the Constitution of the United States. Whether the Radicals are to be defeated in the great States of Pennsylvania, New York and Ohio, cannot be stated with certainty. The Radicals do not themselves disguise that they are weaker than they were. SIMEON CAMERON, one of the shrewdest of American politicians, declares that Philadelphia is lost to the party. The New York Tribune admits that elections may be lost on the question of negro suffrage. If the ship is not sinking, there are at least many leaks to be stopped. The North has been fooled long enough with Sambo. It is beginning to ask itself if the result of the war will not be, under Radical rule, not a dissolution of the Union, but a total destruction of the government. It is beginning to inquire if the blood which has been spilt on both sides will not have been shed in favor of despotism, un less the people check Radical progress in the direction of encroachments on Constitutional liberty. All political managers in the Radical party know, that with eyes open thirty-two millions of white men will not voluntarily abandon their liberty for the sake of giving license to four millions of blacks. They know that unless new exciting causes can be found, the people will no longer be cheated. A new sensation must be produced, and the negro idea must be carried out by other means than by exhibiting him always to the public. Treasonable intentions on the part of the President must be found, and the statement is boldly made that he intends to subvert the government. We may be mistaken, but we do not think that the people will be deceived. They are using every means to subvert the Constitu-
